

the smoffice.

Terms and Conditions

To be clear about expectations, we thought we'd jot down what we're asking for from the Smoffice participant (s). The following are the organizers' expectations:

- 1) The Smoffice participant will arrive in Durham and open the Smoffice officially by Tuesday, May 1. The participant will finish in the Smoffice on Wednesday, October 31. Ending on Halloween, not sure if we should be scared or not.
- 2) The participant will utilize the Smoffice space a minimum of 25-30 hours per week. We're footing the bill, we want to make sure the space is used.
- 3) The participant will add intrigue, excitement, and fun to Main Street with his/her presence in the Smoffice storefront. Durham isn't boring, you shouldn't be boring either.
- 4) The participant will blog/tweet/facebook about his/her experience throughout the six months of the Smoffice. We want to hear about life in Durham through your eyes.
- 5) The participant will receive introductions to successful Triangle entrepreneurs. We're here to help you build a robust network with all of the other startups in the Triangle.
- 6) The participant will receive extra perks such as tickets to sporting events, music and entertainment venues, and more. Building a company in Durham is fun, by the way.
- 7) The participant will receive access and introductions to area venture capitalists and angel investors. Gotta have mullah.
- 8) The participant will receive introductions and support from attorneys, accountants, and marketers with thorough experience and understanding of startups. Free assistance? Can't beat it.
- 9) The participant will enjoy an unfurnished downtown condo for six months. Bring that ratty couch with you.
- 10) The participant will receive a desk chair, storage cube, and shelves for use in the Smoffice. For hiding your stash of Diet Cokes and Doritos.